Area History

North West Hendricks is comprised of Pittsboro, North Salem and Lizton. In recent years these towns have seen an increase in growth as the population has continued its shift westward through Hendricks County. Like the rest of the county, North West Hendricks has benefited from the highway system which links it to the metropolitan Indianapolis area.

Commerce

Municipal utilities can be directly linked to the recent increase in residential growth of the three towns that make up the North West Hendricks corner of the county. Interstate 74 and Steel Dynamics have continued to fuel a recent growth spurt in Pittsboro and Lizton.

Education

Students from Eel River, Marion and Union townships make up the North West Hendricks School Corporation. Schools have been consistently rated as "Four Star" from the Indiana Department of Education, putting them among the elite in the state. The district's strong emphasis on scholastic achievement, mixed with a strong athletic program, makes the area an attractive location to raise a family. The school district had 1,775 students during the 2007 school year and is projected to reach nearly 2,000 students by 2010.

Future

Residents of North West Hendricks embrace their rural lifestyle, but are able to mix old fashioned values with the technology and growth of the 21st century. The future is clear with access to Interstates, Indianapolis and the Indianapolis International Airport, as residents continue their trek westward. North West Hendricks is prepared for growth and offers unlimited opportunities.
